Your Turkeys

For Thanksgiving.

Chaska will soon have a new

Ball.

Make snug about your house for winter.

Buy your vegetables and wood for winter.

Court, Fair and Conventions are over—now the politicians.

The weather has been delightful this week.

Winter underclothing and over coats are already in good demand.

White and Bleached cotton

Flannels at from 6 to 20 cents per yard at Young's store.

Chaska done herself proud in receiving the delegates to the Congressional Convention.

Angus Haas rejoices over the arrival of a bouncing baby son in his family. It arrived Sept. 26th.

New men's, Youth's and boys clothing from the cheapest to the finest in the latest styles at Young's.

Our young friend Chas. Dietzel

Jr., of Benton mourns the loss of an infant child. We sympathize with the family.

Caspar Roth of Benton, was in town on Saturday calling on friends. We acknowledge a pleasant call.

Jake Meuwissen, the genial Post

Master of Cologne, comes to the front again, this time its a young son we extend our best wishes.

Henry Brinkhaus was setting up the cigars last week, over the arrival of a young son in his family. We were not forgotten.

We printed several hundred extra copies of the Herald last week, ordered by patrons of the late

County Fair.

Our office has been crowded with work the past week, so much so that we have been obliged to work evenings.

B. F. Light, Esq., attended our County Fair, and expressed himself as being very much satisfied with what he saw and heard, and he is a no 1 farmer.

No fires, weddings, Conventions, accidents or other great sensations in Chaska this week. We however expect a new chapter in our next issue.

Have you seen the splendid line of dress goods at Young's, if not you are making a mistake as it is without doubt the best shown in the County this season.

It is rumored that our gallant city Marshal is about to wed one of the fair daughters of one of our old and most respected farmers. If so we congratulate.

Chaska has a Band which is a credit to the place. Encouragements were showered upon it by the dele-

Read the add of A. C. Heifferon,

Norwood, who wishes to close out the best paying Harness business in the County, on account of ill health. He also wishes you to settle up old accounts, don't forget him.

Mr. Slocum, of Norwood has a big add in this issue of the HERALD.

He has the largest winter stock of general merchandise ever brought to this County, and he will sell at bottom prices. Read his add, and give him a call.

Our young friends Joseph Lindner and Miss Sophia Wessbecher, both of Waconia, were married on the 28th inst. We join hands in wishing the happy couple the best wishes of the HERALD office, for many years of wedded bliss.

Peter Lano, the well known

Chanhassen farmer, purchased the Kimball Organ that was awarded first prize at the County Fair, of

G. H. Schrons. It is a crack instrument, and Mr. Lano, is to be congratulated.

Our old time friend Andrew

Wiest was receiving the hearty congratulations of his hosts of friends over the addition of a bouncing 12 lb son to his family Oct. 1.

The HERALD office acknowledges the cigars, and extend its congratulations.

The Jordan Independent, speaks highly of our Base Ball

Club, which recently lost a game with their club. They are recorded as gentlemen in every sense of the word, all of which we are pleased to record.

Our population is rapidly increasing, this time Jerry Ehnann is the lucky one. Its a 10 lb son, and reckons its age from October

2d, and Jerry says it will soon occupy Judge MacDonald's seat.

The Hayavans were good.

Henry Ramakers, who lives on the Nick Sturm farm north of town four miles, says that his crops this year are the best ever raised on that place. He has 700 bushels wheat and 400 bushels of oats. The yield of wheat was 25 bushels to the acre, and oats 60 bushels. LEADER

We are in receipt of a pamphlet containing and describing the celebrated Wm. Wackerle Ins case.

The cost of the pamphlet is 25 cts, very interesting to read, and is furnished by Jos. Weinmann Esq., of Minneapolis, or leave your orders at HERALD office.

We were in receipt of a special underground cable gram just as we went to press last week, dated

"New Germany" Carver Co., informing us that Grover Cleveland

11, had made its appearance in the family of R. Zegelin. The HERALD office extends hearty congratulations over the event.

Mr. & Mrs. C. J. Johnson of

Minneapolis, had the misfortune to bury two interesting twin children within a week of each other. Mary was buried on Sunday Sept. 26th and Alfred Sept. 30th. Mrs. Johnson is a sister of Mrs. G. H. Schrons of this village, and was here on a visit at the time her children were taken sick and died. Their many friends in this village and vicinity extend them their sympathy in their affliction.

Farm Stock and Home was recently shown some apples grown by

Andrew Peterson, Waconia, Minn, which are one more pleasing evidence of the possibilities of fruit culture in this region; a region in which it was once thought apples could never be grown. The varieties shown embraced splendid specimens of the famous Wealthy, a few very fine Russians—one of which was remarkable for fineness of flesh and delicacy of flavor—and some seedlings of good promise. The fruit committee of the State Horticultural Society hopes to find many specimens like the above in its travels around the state. May its hopes be realized.

Base Ball.

The Jordan White cap and the Chaska Chiefs will play a matched game on the grounds of the latter club, on Sunday, Oct. 10th 1886, at 2:30 p. m. The two clubs are evenly matched and it promises to be a close and interesting contest.

Slocum of Norwood.

Says your can depend of being satisfied both in prices and quality of his goods. He hardly ever allows anybody to undersell him. Call

Died.

Miss Anna J. McCallum was born in Lanark Co. Ontario, Feb 3, 1861 and died in Chaska at the home of her sister E. L. Stoughton Sept 30, 1886, being therefore 25 years, 7 months, and 27 days old.

She was lovely and amiable in her natural disposition, and professing faith in the blood of the Redeemer, we feel that she has been adopted into the family above, that her flesh rests in hope.

County Ticket.

THERE is very little opposition to the Democratic County ticket in this County. The Republican and Farmers Alliance Conventions endorsed nearly all the nominees put in the field by the Democracy.

Mr. Streukens for Auditor has no opposition, a worthy compliment to a faithful officer.

Sheriff DuToit was endorsed by both the republican and farmers

Conventions and has only the nominees of the prohibition party to face.

Register Greiner has an opponent in the person of George Klein, but we understand that Mr. Klein does not desire the position. Mr.

Greiner has made a very efficient officer and will be re-elected by a large majority.

Judge Schaller candidate for re-election as Judge of Probate has no opposition, being endorsed by both parties, and being a popular officer will "go in" with a routing vote.

Mr. Krayenbuhl the nestor of the Court House, has no opposition for the office of Clerk of the District Court and is consequently to stay.

Mr. Bradley is also fortunate, and has a clear field as candidate for Superintendent of schools and will make an efficient officer.

John Radde, the popular Waconia

Marshall is the democratic candidate for Coroner, and Dr. Northrop of Norwood is his opponent.

We apprehend a close fight with chances in favor of John.

Mr. Vreys of Norwood the popular ex-County Supt. of Schools and Dr. Riches of Waconia, will contend for Court Commissioner-ship. The former is known throughout the County and will take the perisomous.

Mr. Muhlberg, our genial co-temporary of the Free Press, has no opposition for the County

F. E. DUTOIT,

member of the State Committee from this Judicial District, and Fred W. Eder, the member of the Congressional committee from this County. Truly the young men are coming to the front, and our County can feel honored.

THE democrats of Excelsior recently organized an Anes Club in that village with a large membership. Several persons who have heretofore acted with the republican party joined the club and are enthusiastic in the support of the genial Doctor.

THE Legislative ticket nominated by both parties is an unusually strong one. Mr. Anderson is an old settler of over thirty years residence in this County, and an able business man and staunch democrat. His opponent Mr. Ackermann is also an old resident and well known in business circles.

Both have hosts of friends and the fight will be a close one.

THE Democratic and Farmers Alliance nominees for the Legislature are Hon. Gunther Toubert and Mr.

B. F. Light of Watertown. Mr.

Toubert gave excellent satisfaction as a member of the last Legislature and will be re-elected by a large majority. Mr. Light his co-nominee is an old resident and prominent farmer of Watertown, active and intelligent, and if elected, will be found working for the best interests of the farmers.

THE republican nominees are Hon.

Peter Iltis and Otto Malsenberger of Benton. Mr. Iltis was a member of the Legislature two years ago and has a good record; he is well known throughout the county.

With Mr. Malsenberger we are not personally acquainted, but understand that he is an intelligent farmer and capable of filling the position to which he aspires.

HOME AND COUNTY NEWS.

Corn husking is about over.
Our farmers have had a splendid fall for plowing.

Don't wait too long on account of fine weather, before you make snug for winter about your house.

The HERALD office is the place to get your tickets printed cheap for cash.

Pay up your subscription to the HERALD. We must have several hundred dollars to pay our debts within a short time.

Read over the ads in this issue of the HERALD. Always patronize the men who advertise, for they are liberal and will treat you well.

The HERALD and Farm, Stock & Home, the best farmers paper in the State, for $1.50 when paid cash in advance on no other terms.
The best offer in the State.

Mr. & Mrs. Stoughton, desire to extend their sincere thanks to the many friends who so kindly and tenderly helped them to bury their fair young dead.

Martin Van Sloun, has received a part of his furniture stock, and has opened out in the Starkey building next to Bury's butcher shop.

John Dols was setting up the cigars on Tuesday morning, occasioned by the arrival of a young daughter in his family the evening previous. We extend our best wishes.

Dennis Kerber a prominent farmer of Chanhassen, recently purchased a two seated Buggy from P.
H. Finnegan. This carriage was on exhibition at our County fair and received a diploma.

The funeral of Lorenz Weber, took place from the Catholic Church, on Friday morning called together a large crowd of old settlers.
The deceased was greatly respected and without an enemy in the world.

John Meyer, the well known brick layer of this village has just completed a one and one half story brick dwelling house, for Albert Darow. It is situated in the eastern part of our village.

We call attention to the change in the advertisement of Mr. M.
Simonich of Norwood, from which it will be seen that he is rapidly selling out, at his greatly reduced prices. Now is your chance to get "big bargains," and don't you forget it.

Last week Judge Schaler committed J. Fernbach of Waconia to the Lansue Asylum, and this week he was obliged to send Miss Gerlach there also. The latter is a resident of Chanhassen, 20 years of age.
The parents of both parties are entitled to the sympathy of our people.

Gottlieb Matzold, Joseph and Henry Straus, prominent farmers of Laketown, made us a pleasant visit on Friday while in town on business. Mr. M., left for a visit to his son Frank, who resides at Litchfield, on Saturday. We wish him a pleasant trip and visit.

Henry Straus of the town of Laketown, lost a young daughter 2 years, 9 months and 10 days of age, of diphtheria, on the 29th day of September. We are also informed that he has another child, a young son, down with the same disease at this time. The community at large extend to Mr. & Mrs.
Straus their heartfelt sympathy in their affliction.

Jos. Franken, Mike Bierline, Philip Riederle of this village and Jas. Burris of St. Paul, left for Webster, D. T., on Monday on a hunting trip. They will be gone a week or ten days, and had a car load of ammunition (wet & dry) with them. They will meet Besmann, Burkhardt & Hecklin at that place. We predict that they will have a jolly time.

The Herald, Farm, Stock and Home.

We will furnish the HERALD FARM, STOCK and HOME of Minneapolis at club rates of $1.50 provided you pay in advance for both papers on or before Jan. 1st 1887. This gives you your home paper and a first class Minnesota Farm Journal, at the cost of one paper, if paid in advance. Therefore you should not neglect this opportunity of securing your winters reading at a trifling cost.

Died.
Lorenz Weber, a resident of this village for several years past, died on the 6th of October of general debility aged 70 years.
Mr. W., was a brother-in-law of Mr. Lorenz Stager of this village, and was a pioneer settler in this County, having settled in Laketown in the year 1854, and in all that time was an exemplary citizen, and his death is mourned by a large circle of relatives and friends.
He leaves an aged wife and several sons and daughters all well provided for.

School Apportionment.
The State Superintendent of public instruction made the regular semi-annual apportionment of school funds last week. The award is at the rate of 93 cents for each pupil. Carver County is credited with having 8008 children attending school and is allotted $2,797.44.

Attention Veterans!
There will be an important meeting of Wm R. Baxter Post of G. A.
R., at Odd Fellow Hall, Chaska on Thursday evening Oct 14th commencing at 7.30 p. m.
A full attendance is desired.

Ball! Ball!
On Saturday October 16th, 1886, a grand ball will take place at Lembachers Hall, Augusta. Good music has been engaged for the occasion and other arrangements will be made to make this ball a very sociable one; all are invited to attend.

The Delightful New-Step Polka, by Will Thompson, is one of the most beautiful pieces of music ever published. Any music dealer will mail it to you on receipt of price, 50 cts. Address,
W. L. Thompson & Co.,
East Liverpool Ohio.

Notice Extraordinary.
Slocum says he is not selling out but will sell his goods, all new, fresh and in style, just as cheap as the next one, and simply invites an inspection of the quality of his goods and the price thereof believing that he can please all. Give him a call and see for yourselves.

Montrose Personal.
Fred Klatt, formerly of this County is now one of the leading business men of Montrose, Wright County. He runs the leading hotel in that village, and has a saw mill and feed store besides. His Carver County friends wish him continued success.

Mr. John Green, of Laketown, formerly in the employ of Mr.
Kader of Waconia, is also prospering if we may judge from the following item taken from the Howard Lake Herald.
Mr. Green, our genial harness maker, has, during the summer, sold twenty nine double and seven single harness, all of his own manufacture; besides doing a great deal of repairing. He is a good workman and deserves the success he has attained in building up a profitable business.

APPLES, APPLES,

This week we will receive our first car of the most celebrated Premium Brand of winter apples, our guarantee with every barrel, is this 1st That our apples shall be throughout each barrel sound, good sized, bright, handsome,
and picked stock.

2d That our barrels shall measure out three full bushels of apples and not 2 1/2 bushels as others.
3d That the bushel in the center of the barrel shall be the same as at either end.
4th That we shall sell them at $2.25 per barrel (Cash) which is 50 cts less per barrel than any one can sell them, quantity and quality considered.

5th That Every barrel sold by us has our full guarantee.

town committee, a meeting was held in the village of Waconia, October 4th 1886, for the purpose of organizing an Ames & MacDonald Club.
The following officers were duly elected, viz:
President—Dr. Van Krevolin.
Vice—Peter Willemss.
2—F. J. Steidl.
Treasurer—John Kugler.
Secretary—A. E. Kader.
On motion it was Resolved that a democratic mass meeting be held at Lipps Hall, Saturday evening October 9 next.
The Secretary was instructed to post notices accordingly. The meeting then adjourned after giving three cheers for our nominees.
A. ED KADER.

A CARD.
Mr. G. H. Schroers is striving to make people believe, that R. Hellriegel has regularly entered his machines at the County fair, for a number of years when there was no machine competing with his, and that he studiously avoided of doing anything of that kind this year, in consequence of finding that he would have to compete with the Wheeler & Wilson machines &c, but Hellriegel can prove that he never entered for premiums, and has not paid any more attention to entering his machines and instruments at the county fair during the former years, than he did on the last occasion, although he had more competition at that time in general; nor has Hellriegel three or four experts from St. Paul, Minneapolis, or probably from Chicago, like Mr.
Schroers, that might operate an inferior machine quite successfully and attract a large, yes a very large crowd of only intelligent ladies and gentlemen, in opposition to Hellriegel all alone, calling this a square competition and ample testimenial—probably in Schroers eyes & friends that wish it to be so, and of course, lose sight of the poor points in the machine.
S. also stands at the fair, inviting lookers on to have them "admire his experts that undoubtedly deserved more than extraordinary merit. Whether the admirers have made the "Wheeler & Wilson" their choice or wished to possess only the skill of the experts, the writer is unable to state. But there is however, no room for doubt, or error that Schroers was afraid he would be beaten, if he had entered his machines and instruments on a square competition without his army of experts. This is the Schroers style of doing, which characterizes his high business and moral standing, nicely.
In answer to Hellriegels claim, for the reputation of the New Home, Schroers says, "We are loathe to believe that the people of Carver County are so destitute of objects, to occupy their attention that they should lavish them upon inanimate machines. "Hence the writer will say that he can give a proof of reality to the claim, that his many customers in Carver county and in the joining counties, are using his machines satisfactorily that have been in operation for many years and in preference to the Wheeler & Wilson. Consequently the question is whether the New Home deserves to be called inanimate and the people that are satisfied with his machines, to be considered, destitute of objects. We therefore have reason to believe that proudly self respecting people will not shield such slander.
R. HELLRIEGEL.

GENERAL NEWS NOTES.

F. E. DU TOIT, Publisher.

CHASKA, MINNESOTA

Murat Halstead of the Cincinnati Commercial spends a great deal of time in New York, and is convinced that New York is soon to be a greater city than London.

The Burlington insurance company offers $200 for the best design for a tornado or cyclone cave. It must be drained and ventilated so as to be a wholesome refuge in any threatening storm.

The report of Gen. Miles shows that Germino surrendered unconditionally. He tried to make terms for himself but they were refused peremptorily and he was told that he was at the mercy of the president.

The quickest passage ever made across the Atlantic between Queens-town and New York, was by the Eturia of the Cunard Line. She did it last summer in six days and a few hours. Many attempts have been made to beat this time but without success.

The Railroad Gazette, which is one of the most thorough practical journals in the country, discusses the decrease in our food exports, and shows that notwithstanding the great number of new farms grain production has not increased. On the average the production has been about the same for the past six years, but the consumption has increased faster than the production of food.

The New York Sun drops an excellent word of advice to young women who draw ravines and slash young men in public places. It is in short, do not do anything of the kind, or attempt it is dangerous; first, because it is an unwomanly and rowdy like act, and secondly, because the girls who try it, as a rule, are not good girls. In short, it makes a great deal more scandal than it cures.

The torch of the great statue of Liberty in New York harbor will contain five electric lamps of 30,000 candle power, the light of which will be thrown upward. It is believed that the light will so illuminate the dome that they will be visible at a distance of 100 miles. Four electric lights of 6,000 candle power each will be placed at the foot of the statue, so as to illuminate it. The diadem on the head of the figure will contain incandescent lamps to give the effect of jewels.

Not less than 45,000 seedling pine trees, the gift of Adolphus, were recently distributed in San Francisco among school children. They are to be carefully nursed, and next month to be set where they can develop into valuable timber. It is the intention to make tree-planting a success in this great Pacific State, and to this end the distribution just mentioned is to be annual. Kept up for a few generations, it is more than probable that the California waste places will become fertile, and that deserts will become meadows.

October, 9, 1871, fifteen years ago, Chicago was wrapt in flames. Its churches and its business houses, its streets were swept away by fire. The losses in property amounted to $200,000,000, and bankruptcy and destruction swamped up many of its most interesting trades and industries. To-day there is scarcely a visible trace of the great conflagration, and the city is now rebuilt, safer, stronger and more magnificent, than any one could have dreamed of previous to the awful disaster.

General Master Workman Powderly of the Knights of Labor, frankly admits that the strike for eight hours has not been successful. He now believes that the establishment of an eight hour system can only be secured through the adoption of a plan which will be gradual in its operation and which will not inflict injury on either employer or workmen, and that before the establishment of the system can be of any benefit to the workman his relations to labor-saving machines must be changed by the adoption of some plan of co-operation.

In a sensible sermon by his people Rev. Alexander Crummell, rector of the Calvary church, Atlanta, Ga., recently called attention to the fact that twenty years ago not more than 30,000 colored people in the South could read, while now there are over a million colored children attending school. He insisted on "common sense in common schooling" and urged his congregation not to aspire to fancy culture until they were sure they had a trade or other means of self-support. This advice is good for other localities than Atlanta and other races than the African.

The biennial report on the schools of Vermont, presented to the legislature at its late meeting shows that the educational system of the State is retrograding rather than improving. In 1880 the number of children enrolled in school at some time during the year was 79,952, while in 1886 it has sunk to 79,667. As the last census showed 99,463 persons of school age, it follows that only 72 per cent. of the children now enter a public school, against more than 74 per cent. six years ago. The superintendent, however, states that the average attendance is only 65 per cent. of those enrolled. It is presumed, though it is not stated in the report, that the small average attendance is on account of the increased number of scholars in parochial and private schools.

Philadelphia Times. A young man in New York says that Mrs. Langtry will receive the divorce she has been expecting but in these days of unceremonious divorce the rumor that she is to make her future home in this country is also a rumor. Mrs. Langtry is not expected to make any objection, or none, at least, cannot be received by the government. A substantial hint. Some said that Mr. Langtry really has the coldly calculated beauty of a fortune teller, and that she will yet win him and retire from the stage. But this, too, lacks unimpeachable authority. With all that never was remarkable and beauty that must have in time, it is not strange that she should look to the future with something like a calculating look in her cold gray eyes.

A duel with swords has been fought between Mr. Bauer, editor of the Paris Echo, and Count D'ion, a well-known financier. The trouble was caused by comments on Count D'ion's coming marriage with an actress of the Theatre Francaise. Mr. Bauer was wounded in the arm.

Protection for the Lungs.

Popular Science News. Mr. James H. Hays makes a very sensible suggestion, in the Herald of Health, when he calls attention to the absurdity of our present custom of wearing cambric-backs, while the fronts are of heavy material and sometimes wadded, and water is so proper of protection for both sides.

Mr. Hays. The habit, of course, is grown from a belief that the outside is sufficient protection for the lungs, while the chest needs warm covering, on account of the coat being open. But it seems a disapproval of the reasoning that the first unpleasant sensations of chilliness are the so-called "creepers" running down the spine. Even when the warmest woolen material is selected for suiting the tailor, unless otherwise ordered, will invariably make the back of the coat of some thin, flimsy material, like cambric or silk; though he may deem it advisable to pad the front with cotton wadding. There is no proper reason why the back of the chest should be made so inefficient. The front may be made unaccountably thick, and still fail to protect the lungs, and the back, in front they are protected about five times as much as in the back by clothing, ribs, flesh, muscle, etc. In the chest the back is almost to the surface, and therefore needs more protection. Mr. Hays asserts that it has been his custom for two years past to wear a coat of flannel, which he has mentioned the matter have had their vests made with good warm backs, and after a while the trial was quite enthusiastic over the change.

They have passed through the entire winter and spring without once catching cold, and he has mentioned the matter have had their vests made with good warm backs, and after a while the trial was quite enthusiastic over the change.

Thousands of Battlesnakes.

Kinnus, Pa., Despatch to the New York Herald. Towering above the valleys in this region are smaller mountains of the Pennsylvania range. These high hills are covered with dense forests, and are well nigh inaccessible. Few men ever ascend to the tops of the mountains. A party of hunters from Warren, Pa., were hunting for snakes, and on the 10th inst. they explored large sections of the mountains for the first time. Our brick yards have shut down.

Sherriff DuToit is kept busy serving Railroad right of way appeals.

Particulars about Illis new Hall next week.

Jim Reynolds is building the foundation for Illis new frame Hall.

Our County jail is still empty. What County with over 16,000 inhabitants can show a better record.

Local politics will soon warm up—the fight being mostly on the Legislative ticket.

Our mechanics, carpenters and masons, are all kept busy on new buildings and repairing old ones.

Mothers if you need cloaks for your children, cheap for cash go to Bierline & Sons.

Judge Schaler is holding a regular term of Probate Court this week.

If you are in need of Flannels and underwear, best quality, and at bottom prices go to Bierline & Sons.

John Etzel has been putting a new brick foundation under his rear porch. It will make his building more warmer.

Hugo Hecklin & wife started for Stearns County last Thursday on a visit to relatives in that County.

Albert Muehlberg, son of Capt. Muehlberg has opened a new harness shop in Carver. We wish him success.

Judge Warner was called to Renneville County to attend to some law business recently, and met with success.

One week more, then election. Our office has printed a mint of mixed tickets this week. Keep your eyes open at the polls.

Go to Bierline & Sons, and look over their immense stock of general merchandise, which they are selling at a very small margin for cash.

Our old friend Peter Buttendorf of Carver has retired from the saloon business. Mr. Plackner, recently connected with the Carver Plow Co., is the new proprietor.

Mrs. F. W. Henning and Mrs. H. H. Heggel returned home last Saturday from a two weeks visit to New Ulm, to the relatives of Mrs. Heggel.

Mr. Boye's new saloon and boarding building situated near the Union Brewery, is receiving its last coat of paint, and will be ready to move into before long.

We are in receipt of an interesting letter from Rev. Father Drann, but as it is similar to that which recently appeared in the Carver Press we omit it.

The Carver plow works have commenced manufacturing seeders. They are said by competent judges to be just suited to our soil, and we hope they will meet with large sales.

The Herald office has been over run with job work the past two weeks. We hope to catch up with all orders by the middle of next week—and then will be ready for another batch.

Some twenty five or thirty of our enthusiastic young democrats attended the Ames rally at Shakopee last Saturday evening, and report a grand time, and a general hurrah for Ames.

Peter Illis moved the Barber Shop building occupied by Lou Werner, to the lot on the opposite side of the street, next to Frank Eisel's shoe store, where Lou can be found at all times.

Our thanks are hereby returned to Mr. Bierline, of the Union Brewery, for an eighth of his unrivaled beer. We are glad to say that he is meeting with deserved success in the brewery business.

Our sportsmen came home Monday Morning from the Dakota Prairies, loaded with game. We acknowledge the receipt of a nice goose, from Philip Riedler and one from Joseph Franken, the first we have been favored with this season and we can assure the boys that they were toothsome eating, and that we did the "subject" justice. They "downed" over twenty geese on this trip, beside an innumerable number of ducks.

John Bierstetle, has found it necessary to enlarge his confectionery and variety store, in order to meet the wants of increasing trade, and has taken out the rear partition, giving him much more room. He will put in a large stock for the Holiday trade at once.

Many of the laborers on our brick yards, have left town and are working on the Lyndale Railroad in Chanhassen and Laketown, and receive $1.50 per day and board. This road must be completed and in running order on or before Jan. 1st, hence the good pay.

Our thanks should have been returned to Peter Lano, our old Chanhassen friend; a long time ago for the nicest lot of comb honey we ever used in our family. Mr. Lano, is an expert and knows how to attend to his hives to secure the best result.

John Guthling & wife, of Benton, were in town on Wednesday, and made our office a pleasant call. He also informs us that he purchased 30 acres of land adjoining his farm of Theodore Grenke, for $750. He now has 230 acres in one body, making it one of the finest farms in the County.

The Equitable aid Union paid last Saturday $2,200 life insurance to the beneficiaries of the late Judge Brown. This payment is ahead of some other companies and would have been met in August, but for delays wherein the Company were not to blame. We are informed that the Union was never more prosperous. Up to August 28th, there has been issued since Jan. 1, 1886, to new members, 2,240 benefit certificates. This increase in eight months time, suffices to show the good standing of the Equitable Aid Union—Shakopee Courier.

Readings Patent Wire Gate.

This new Gate which was exhibited at the County Fair by Theodore Ruediger of Laketown, is a good and valuable invention in which the farmers should take a deep interest. Mr. R., is a genius as an inventor and anything he invents is sure to be a success. Our farmers should call on Mr. R., and get his terms for his Gates. This Gate is wire Gate and cheaply made.

Farm For Sale.

I will sell at public auction, a farm containing 69 acres of land, known as the Fred Hild farm situated in sect. 4, Waconia, on Thursday, November 18, 1886.

At 10 o'clock a.m., together with the building thereon.

TERMS made known on day of sale.

GEO. A. DUTOIT.

Wedding Bells.

The announcement of the marriage of Hubert Rief, our popular young tailor, to Miss Katie Messler, daughter of Frank Messler, has been made in the Catholic Church. We have not been informed what day the happy event will take place.

Theodore Mertz, the popular employee of the Merchants Hotel of this village, will wed Miss Katie Hartz, at St. Marks Church, Shakopee, on the 28th of this month. We wish both couples much joy.

For Sale Or Rent.

The only Harness Shop in the thriving village of Norwood.

A rare chance for a Harness Maker.

On account of continuous Rheumatism and general poor health I have decided to close out my harness business. In order to close out my stock, I will sell at cost for Cash, MY LARGE AND COMMODIOUS HARNESS SHOP 18 x 32, built in 1884, with the remainder of stock on hand, is for sale after January 1st 1887, all at very reasonable terms.

Farmers and others knowing themselves indebted to me are respectfully requested to settle their accounts.

A. C. HEIFFERON.

The Herald, Farm, Stock and Home.

We will furnish the HERALD FARM, STOCK and HOME of Minneapolis at club rates of $1.50 provided you pay in advance for both papers on or before Jan. 1st 1887. This gives you your home paper and a first class Minnesota Farm Journal, at the cost of one paper, if paid in advance. Therefore you should not neglect this opportunity of securing your winters reading at a trifling cost.

Dr. C. H. Kohler is in Chicago, attending the Medical College there. He will remain all winter.

DIED—On Friday October 8th, Sophia Meers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Meers. The funeral took place from the Catholic Church on Sunday at 2 o'clock p. m., Rev. Father Jones officiating. The funeral was largely attended and the family has the sympathy of the entire community. Sophia was born in this village on Jan. 31, 1868, consequently over 18 years old at the time of her death. She was always a good and obedient child and a devout member of the Catholic church, with the last rites of which she died fortified. She had never been rugged in constitution, but yet her fatal sickness did not commence until about five months ago, when her sister, Josephine, died; after that she failed rapidly.

Estray Notice.

Came into my enclosure in the town of Chaska, on Tuesday, Sept. 27th, 1886, a Bull about 2 years old. The owner came forward, prove property and take the same away, by paying the costs of keeping and advertising.

As the most efficient and reliable means of securing cheap transportation, they should receive the close attention of every representative of not only Minnesota, but the entire West and Northwest. Our bulky products, particularly our surplus wheat and flour, must seek a market in distant states upon the seaboard and in foreign countries, and as transportation by water is always cheaper than by rail, the importance of furnishing our people with these means of cheap transportation is apparent. The value to our people of these waterways is fully illustrated by the fact that the freight charge upon a bushel of wheat between Chicago and New York in winter, is from twelve to fifteen cents, and in summer it is but half that figure. It is believed from what has already been accomplished, that with the reasonable expenditure deemed necessary, such a depth of water can be secured in the Mississippi as will allow wheat or flour to be transported from the Minnesota valley and to the Helice or the Gulf of Mexico, and put upon ships to be conveyed to Europe, and our Mexican and South American neighbors, at a rate not to exceed one-third what is now paid to reach those places. Our last legislature, in memorializing congress upon this subject, declared that "what at $3 cents per bushel (freight) on board ship at Helice means $6,400,000 per year saved to Minnesota on her present production. If this would be the present annual saving to the people of this state, what would be the amount ten years hence? A comparatively small amount has, so far been appropriated by the general government for the improvement of the Mississippi river, and yet the channel depth has been increased from two and one-half to four and one-half feet, during what was formerly known as the low-water period. As a part of the Western waterway system, the Hennepin canal is advocated and urged by the people of Illinois and many others. The project is to build a canal connecting Lake Michigan, at Chicago, with the Mississippi river in the vicinity of Rock Island. Of it, I will only say that, if feasible, I regard it as one of the grandest schemes to benefit the Northwest that can be devised. I will not dwell upon the manifest advantage of having a continuous waterway from here to Chicago and from there on to Buffalo. Its highest estimated cost is about $12,000,000, and if there are four highways which all can use, and over which there can be no controlling monopoly, and the improvement of them should be favored by every faithful representative of the people of the Northwest. To better protect and look after the interests of our farmers, the department of agriculture, which is in Washington should be elevated to the dignity of a cabinet position. As those of our citizens who are engaged in agricultural pursuits form a large percentage of the producing class, they should have a representative in the cabinet who would be capable of advocating their claims and protecting their interests.

PENSIONS TO VETERANS.
The fact that among the votes by President Cleveland of bills passed by the last congress were some vetoing private pension bills, has brought the subject of granting pensions to soldiers again prominently before the people. These veterans have been the professional politician in an attempt to create prejudice against not only the president, but the party which elected him, and it is but another form of the stereotyped effort to use the veterans of the late war to gain a party advantage. It is not my purpose to debate the merits of the pension laws, but to point out the facts relating to the legislation upon pensions, and the action of the president thereon, must conclude that such persons are, if informed, dishonest in their assertions. These veterans are represented to be an evidence of an unfriendly spirit towards our Union soldiers, who are entitled to the undying gratitude of the American people for preserving our government and saving the Union. Nothing is more at variance with the truth, and the facts show that if a comparison is to be instituted between what President Cleveland has done and the action of his predecessors he is entitled to be considered one of the best.

FRIENDS OF THE SOLDIERS.
The facts are, as stated by Harper's Weekly, that the committee of the Democratic house reported favorably over seven hundred private pension bills against four hundred reported by the committee of the late Republican house that many were rejected as utterly undeserving (showing how great is the pressure of unfounded claims), and that of the seven hundred, the president has vetoed but ninety—most of which had been rejected by a republican commissioner of pensions. Thus while President Cleveland has signed six pension bills in sixteen months, Gen. Grant approved only 542 in eight years of his administration. Such facts dispose effectually of the unworthy partisan assaults upon President Cleveland as hostile to the soldiers. The bare mention of these facts is sufficient to show how unjust it is for these partisans to indulge in such wholesale denunciations of the president as has been attempted. For myself, always (as my intimate friends well know), have had fixed and emphatic views upon this subject. My opinion and belief has always been, that we could never do too much to reward these brave defenders of the Union for their services in our behalf. Many of those who exercise the elective franchise to-day, were, in the dark days of the rebellion, either residents of a foreign land, or

TOO YOUNG TO REMEMBER.
Now the sacrifices which these brave men made in defense of their country. But we who were here then, and who had arrived at the age of maturity, can never forget the services and sacrifices of these patriot heroes. They were told, when they enlisted, that a grateful country would always remember what they had done, and fully recompense them if they returned from the war, and honor their memory and protect and care for those dependent upon them if they fell in the nation's defense. While connected with the service I enlisted and mustered into the army many of them, and while doing so felt warranted in vouching to them that these promises would be faithfully fulfilled, and as I today remember those brave men going forth, relying upon those promises, and the trying parting scenes that were so often enacted in my presence as they separated from their loved ones, and what they endured, I feel, as I have always felt, that it was a religious duty on my part, at every time and on every occasion when an opportunity presented itself, to do all in my power to redress those solemn pledges. The man or woman who today would be opposed to granting a pension to every Union soldier deserving of the same, surely cannot reflect upon what these men underwent, and the hardships, privations and sufferings which they endured. Who is there today that for the highest pension that is allowed to a soldier who has served to leave his family and friends and go forth to risk his life in battle and by engaging in a campaign in the most unhealthy portion of our country? How many would be willing, for a pension to spend five years in the burning sun and drench of summer and the mud of winters (where it rained all the time it wasn't freezing), between Washington and Richmond, in the swampy valley of the Mississippi, everywhere contracting the diseases generated by the malaria and unhealthy climate of those regions? Who is there that will deny them who spent weary months in the Libby, Andersonville or Belle Isle prisons, did not earn a pension? It is useless to attempt to describe the deadly conflicts and battles in which they have been engaged, and that have made nearly every mile from Washington to Richmond and from Cairo to New Orleans, and to Atlanta, and thence to the sea, historic, as the scenes of the bloodiest and most sanguinary war recorded in the history of modern times. If there are those who complain of the amount of the present pension appropriations, I would remind them of the magnitude of that war. Our government actually put in the field for three years' service 2,320,272 men. Of these we lost:

ALTERNATELY FIGHTING AND MARCHING

THEIR SACRIFICES.
If the hardships of that war were such that 86,216 actually died of disease, how many more thousands must have contracted diseases that disabled them for life. Unlike the armies of other nations, our soldiers were composed of the best wage earners in this country, and this should be remembered in considering the sacrifices they made. The amount which they received, if allowed a pension, is a mere pittance, when compared with the services rendered for our country in its greatest hour of need, and our nation can well afford to pay it. We rely upon such volunteer soldiers in case of a war, and therefore have no standing army to maintain, at an expense of hundreds of millions annually, and we can afford to liberally pension our veterans. These men are not neophytes, who are entitled to the pension laws, but the veterans of the Union through scenes of blood and carnage, and to whose patriotic devotion to the Union we are today indebted for the enjoyment of the blessings of the present government of the world has ever seen; and it is the duty of those of us who did not have to undergo the hardships which they did, to see to it that justice is done them. They should not be compelled to appeal for what is justly their due. We should secure that for them without their asking. Thousands of deserving applicants for years have been cruelly denied the pensions due them, on account of the present condition of the pension laws. This should not be. These laws should be so amended that there would be no necessity for

PRIVATE PENSION BILLS.
If the beneficiaries of these bills are entitled to pensions, the general law should be so amended that all such claimants could have them allowed by the commission of pensions. My view of it is, that the law should be so that the veteran who applies for a pension should, to procure it, only have to appear before a board of examining surgeons to establish the existence of his disability and grade of it, and (when that was established) he could prove by his own affidavit that that disability was incurred while in the service. The oath of the man who perceives that he is disabled, and who should be all the evidence of that character required. It was not questioned when he was considered amply sufficient to establish his loyalty and patriotism when he enlisted. There are hundreds of cases where the present law requires ing additional evidence has operated to perpetrate a monstrous injustice upon deserving claimants, who really need this, their just due. More than this, when the board of examining surgeons had established the grade of the pension, their report should be final and conclusive. The practice, which has prevailed for years, of allowing the pension office to reduce the grade of the pension from that fixed by the board of examining surgeons, should be prohibited. I have heard pensions already granted criticised, and I imagine I hear the selfish say that this would open the doors of the treasury to the assaults of fraud.

THE ASSAULTS OF FRAUD.
I deny it. I insist upon it that our veterans are not deserving of any such imputation, and that the pensions already granted do not warrant it. Every pensioner has to establish his disability before a board of surgeons, and prove it was incurred in the service. This ought to satisfy the most captious. Few men desire to expose their services to the public gaze, but I presume the world will always have doubting Thomases. My friends, the cost of these pensions is a mere bagatelle to a great and glorious nation such as ours. Nearly a quarter of a century has passed since the war ended, and the patriot heroes are rapidly passing away. Last year 17,000 members of the Grand Army of the Republic alone responded to the last bugle call, and each succeeding year will show an increasing list. Soon there will be comparatively few of the Union veterans for us to comfort in our declining years. While honoring the dead, let us not forget that the grand memorial to their patriotism that we can erect is a monument of fulfilled duty to the survivors, and as we elect to congress, I will act and vote upon the subject of pensions in accordance with these views, and shall be disappointed if my action shall not meet the approval of the great majority of my constituents. I also think it wise that the bill granting a pension to the veterans of the Mexican war, recently passed in congress, has not been the labor question.

THE LABOR QUESTION.
The question of the rights of labor, which now agitates the public mind, is second in importance to none of those demanding the thoughtful attention of the statesman and the public. Compelled by the monopolistic tendencies of capital to organize for self-protection, the workmen of the country have banded themselves together in a powerful organization known as the Knights of Labor. Its existence is regarded by many with feelings akin to alarm. I do not so regard it. Nothing as yet exists to inspire the belief that the methods and purposes are otherwise than those of law-abiding citizens. The present agitation, and the action of the Knights of Labor officials therewith, showed that whatever was lawless on the part of the strikers was the principle of the law. They have a good right to organize for protection and to advance their interests as any other class of our citizens, and to secure to them by lawful methods alone, to accomplish this purpose, their efforts must meet with the approval of the law.

THE WORKINGMAN'S CAPITAL.
It is entitled to the same consideration at the hands of congress, or the state legislature, as the money or property of the wealthy, and I regard it as a healthy sign of the times, that this class of our citizens are studying the questions involved in a solution of the labor problem. There should be no conflict between the capitalist and laborer—that is the proper way to put it. For there is no other laborer than the capitalist and laborer. Each is dependent upon the other. The capitalist who has his money invested in industrial enterprises, and who hires the laborer to develop them, if he can employ him on reasonable wages, and the laborer needs the employment if he can receive adequate compensation. There should be harmony between them, and there will be when they mutually recognize the rights of each, and when the rights and justice of each other's claims, and especially when the capitalist learns that the workingmen have some rights—more than he has heretofore conceded—that he is bound to respect. The organization of the Knights of Labor became a necessity for the hundreds of millions of our country, and we consider the magnitude of the organization, and the diverse material of which it is composed, and the brief period in which it has been in existence, we must admire the splendid organization, and concede to be guided by men who are in no intellectual or moral way inferior to the members of the aristocracy, who are the peer of many whose names are recorded with praise in the annals of statesmanship. This organization became necessary, because

and the inordinate desire for the rapid accumulation of more. In total disregard of the rights of the workingman, the capitalists formed combinations, to enrich each other by depressing wages and keeping the price of the product of their several works at a rate that would yield enormous profits. To illustrate: We paid $9 per ton for coal last spring when following press dispatches appeared in the daily papers: "The Clearfield (Pa.) coal-miners have asked Gov. Pattison for aid in securing advanced wages. The men claim that they are making but $10 a month, and are subject to many petty robberies at the company's store, where they are compelled to trade." The assertion is made that the evils of child labor are not such as to justify the demand of the Knights of Labor for its prohibition; but Henry George, in the North American Review of this month on "Labor in Pennsylvania," says that "the graveyards in the mining regions are filled with the bodies of prematurely old and worn out children, whose healths have been destroyed by being put to work too young in the mines." The same may be said of the grave-yards of our manufacturing towns and cities.

WORKINGMEN'S DEMAND.
The workingman, as expressed in the platform of the Knights of Labor adopted in Philadelphia, received full attention from President Cleveland and the branch of congress in sympathy with him. The president made them the subject of a special message to congress, and the Democratic house passed seven bills in the interest of the workingmen, but the senate only passed two and failed to pass five of the most important. I do not know that there are any branches of this organization in this district, but I have referred to the subject because it demands the attention of all of us, and because, if elected, I shall favor all reasonable legislation for securing them protection from such wrongs and injustice as they have heretofore suffered from the capitalist, who has dealt unjustly with them. So long as the workingmen confine their efforts to better their condition, to lawful and peaceable agitation, and act with the dignity of true freedom, they will always command the respect of all law-abiding and justice-loving people. Your resolutions in regard to several subjects of national importance other than those which I have referred to. I heartily endorse each and every one of them. One of them in particular I must refer to, and that is your resolution in reference to the restoration to this country of

worthy of the name. The almost worthless condition of our navy has, oftentimes, in the past few years, been a subject of grave consideration with me. I do not hesitate to say that there is no valid excuse to be urged in defense of the conduct of those who have charge of the administration of our government which has left our navy in the present condition. I refer to the subject—as I believe every other citizen of America who truly loves his country will do—with a feeling of humiliation. While honoring the heroes through and accurate knowledge of what it is writing about will not be disputed, feelingly wrote of our fleet, in his report of Nov. 30, 1885, as follows: "At the present time we have literally nothing in condition, but so-called vessels of war, that can scarcely perform the duties of a peace establishment, and in case of a conflict with a naval power the fore-said war vessels would have to go into retirement." The peace was declared, the largest of them having neither speed nor battery that would enable her to contend successfully against a two-gun modern French or English gun-boat. It is not this, and a terrible arraignment of parties who have had this arm of our service in charge for the last quarter of a century? Until I read this exposure of the helpless condition of

OUR SO-CALLED NAVY.
I could not understand why previous administrations showed such reluctance to assert the rights of citizens of this country against the insupportable demands of foreign navies; but it is now explained, and any person can see the utter absurdity of asserting the ability of this nation to adopt an aggressive policy upon land or sea, when we have a navy built that will enable us to defend ourselves, much less attack foreign fleets or fortifications. In 1850 the distinguished Rufus Choate (then a Whig) in an oration delivered in Boston, said that there was one thing about the Democratic party that always commanded his admiration and respect, and that was "its gay and festive disregard of foreign powers." I do not lose for ever with hope to the day soon to arrive when the improvement of our navy, now begun, will be completed so far as to enable the Democratic party to prove to the world that it is still entitled to the same compliment. This is a subject that will appeal to the patriotism of every citizen of our common country, regardless of his political preferences or affiliations, and I have no doubt that each and every one of them will endorse what I here say upon this subject.

IN CONCLUSION.
Let me say that this campaign shall be conducted by me in a manner becoming the dignity and honor of the position to which you have nominated me. I shall, so far as I am concerned be a clean campaign. I shall indulge in no offensive personalities, and shall confine myself to attempting to convince the people of this district that their interests will be better advanced, by my election, and that the opportunities which I will have to secure them such legislation as our state and country demands will be greater than my competitors. My life—public and private—for the past thirty years is an "open book" to the great majority of the people of this district, and any "campaign yarns" about me are put in circulation they will be able to tell, without my aid, how much truth or falsity they contain.

HEARTILY APPLAUNDED.
The speech made a profound impression and was heartily applauded. The chair was authorized to appoint a congressional committee—one from each county. Senator Hall made a few remarks, pledging Macdonald his hearty support and tendering his services in the canvass. He wanted an aggressive campaign and he was subject to call at any time. He was like the man over in Scott county who, instead of offering a prayer, pinned the Lord's prayer to the head of his bed and said, "Them's my sentiments." That's the way with me in regard to Judge Macdonald's speech, he said. We can win if we put our shoulders to the wheel. The Democrats of the nation expect it, and old Goodhue will be found in the front ranks. While Herbert is popular in Goodhue county, Macdonald will receive the vote of every Democratic there. Senator Peck made a brief talk. His brief was to be a campaign of brains. No congress-sional candidate can be elected in 1886 by a still hunt. The farmers and the people are becoming educated, and they demand a campaign of principles and ideas. He predicted that Scott, Carver and Macdonald would give Macdonald 2,800 majority, and that Scott alone would give him 1,500.

ARA HARTON.
was cordially greeted as he came forward. He shook hands with Judge Macdonald and congratulated him. He greatly amused the crowd by his quaint and humorous comments and expressions. He was somewhat embarrassed, he said, as he had not on leaving home, prepared two speeches—one to be delivered if he was nominated, the other if he was defeated. And so he had none at all. When he was talked of for congress, however, the ladies had loaded him with applications for flower seeds. He had no use for them now, and so he passed them to the crowd. He then handed the judge a piece of paper and the crowd was tickled immensely. He said Judge Macdonald's election was a certainty. This was not a tidal wave but a ground swell. A ground swell was as much ahead of a tidal wave as a cyclone was ahead of a gentle breeze. His allusion to Ames as the next governor produced a burst of enthusiastic applause. A. F. Nordin then made an eloquent speech, telling several funny stories, and explaining briefly his reasons for deserting the Republicans and supporting Ames. He related number of creditable incidents in Ames' career, showing his generosity to the poor and his sympathy with the laboring man. The point made were loudly applauded. Three rousing cheers were given for President Cleveland, upon the suggestion of Chairman Hall, and the convention adjourned.

JUDGE JOHN L. MACDONALD.
A Man Whose Record is Clean and Unimpeachable.
(St. Paul Globe.)
Judge John L. Macdonald is a native of the City of Glasgow, Scotland. He was born in 1838, and is therefore 48 years of age. While quite young, his father, Dr. J. A. Macdonald, immigrated to the United States and located in Pittsburgh, Pa., where the family resided a number of years. In the spring of 1855 the subject of this sketch removed with his father's family to Minnesota, and settled the same year in the town of Belle Plaine, Scott county, and took a "claim" and subsequently completed it. He is, emphatically, one of the Minnesota pioneers, as this location and settlement was made in advance of the government surveys and before the Indians had been removed. After two years spent laboring upon his "claim," he entered the law office of Judge Chittield and engaged in the study of law with that eminent jurist, and remained there, prosecuting his studies, until he was admitted to the bar, in 1862. In 1869 he became editor of the Belle Plaine Inquirer, and continued to publish that paper until the fall of 1871, when he removed to Shakopee and established the Shakopee Argus, which latter paper he published until 1872, when he disposed of it. He has been in public life almost continually since January, 1870. In the fall of 1870 he was elected judge of probate of Scott county which office he held until the close of his term, when he gave it up to accept another. He has held successively the offices of judge of probate, county attorney, county superintendent of schools, member of the house of representatives and state senate, and judge of the Eighth judicial district, which position he now occupies. He has represented that county in both branches of the legislature a great many terms, and his conduct while in the legislature proved eminently satisfactory to his constituents. Of his ability as a legislator we can do no better than to quote the following Republican: "Pencil Portrait" of members of the senate, in the St. Paul Daily Press of March 6, 1874:

AS A LEGISLATOR.
He is a well-read lawyer, a pungent and fluent speaker, bright and quick in debate, and a man who seems out at least for a leader or one who would at least, in an assembly, make a first class commander. Judge Macdonald can do more legislative work in a given time, especially when managing a committee of the whole, than any man in the senate. In debate his preceptions are clear, with adaptability to grasp the salient points in controversy, and to enforce them in a logical, forcible and well-delivered speech. He is universally esteemed as a genial gentleman and one who never shuns any legislative work, of which there is always plenty to do, and comparatively few to do it.

ELECTED JUDGE.
In 1876 he was elected judge of the Eighth judicial district, defeating after a somewhat spirited contest, Judges Baxter and L. M. Brown. His conduct upon the bench has been such as to win from all, and especially those who had opposed him, the highest compliments for his ability as a jurist and his impartial and courteous manner in which he has discharged the duties of his office and presided at every term of court. So thoroughly satisfactory was he the people of the Eighth judicial district that in 1883 he was re-elected without opposition, his warmest supporters for re-election having among them many who had been equally zealous, seven years before, in opposing his election. His proposed retirement from the bench is on account of business reasons, and not a desire to enter political life. His many friends and acquaintances having learned that he contemplated withdrawing from the judiciary, immediately began to urge him upon the attention of the third congressional district as the proper person to nominate for congress, and although strongly urged to become a candidate, it was not until shortly before the meeting of the convention that he agreed to accept the nomination. Judge Macdonald was always an active member of the Democratic party until he was elected to the judicial position which he now holds, yet his political action was always such as to be not offensive to those with whom he differed, and no man was ever a member of the legislature who gained for himself and has retained the personal

FRIENDSHIP OF HIS ASSOCIATES.
Republican or Democrat, more than he has. At the breaking out of the rebellion he was a war Democrat, and when Sumter was fired upon took strong ground in his paper in favor of the suppression of the rebellion by force of arms. During the war when it became necessary to encourage enlistments, he was commissioned to recruit volunteers for the Union army, and while acting as such enlisted and mustered into the service many men who were distributed among different organizations. His family can show as good a record for loyalty to the Union cause as that of any in the country. His father was a surgeon in the First Minnesota cavalry. His brother, Col. James H. Macdonald, began service

IN THE UNION CAUSE.
with the campaign of Gen. Lyons, in Missouri, and ended his four years' service in command of the sixteenth Illinois. His brother Hon. C. F. Macdonald, of St. Cloud, served in the Ninth Minnesota from its organization until it was finally mustered out and a younger brother, too young to be received as a volunteer, but connected with the army, proved his zeal for the cause by participating in every battle fought in the battle of Nashville. No man is better fitted by experience and a thorough knowledge of the wants of our people to represent them in congress than is Judge Macdonald, and we predict that so well known is this fact among the people of the Third congressional district that without the necessity of any extraordinary effort on his part. When we say that Minnesota has not had a more influential and effective representative in congress than he is to be heard on all sides, and from Republicans as well as Democrats. His ability is unquestioned, and his record clean and unsullied, and the people of the Third congressional district are enthusiastic in his support, and confident of his election.

HE WILL BE ELECTED.

JUDGE MACDONALD AT HOME.
The Shakopee Argus having stated that Judge Macdonald would receive at least 1500 majority in his own county, Scott, a Republican supporter wrote to the St. Paul Globe as follows: "I am a Republican, and have been for twenty-five years, my first vote being given for honest Abe Lincoln. I believe that I am what the Democrats would call a black Republican, voting strictly for the party under whose flag I sailed. But, Mr. Editor, when such a man as Judge L. Macdonald is put up for congress I am with him, and I know something about Scott county politics. In my town we will cast about three hundred votes this fall, and the parties are about evenly divided. Out of this vote Macdonald will get every vote except three. Other towns speak about in the same manner. If this does not do our judge will go out of Scott on the night of the 24 of November with 2,000 majority, then I don't know as much as the editor of the Argus. Any man that is really acquainted with the character of Judge Macdonald and knows his qualifications could not vote against him for blind party ties without ever after carrying a guilty conscience. Judge Macdonald is one of those men that always hold up the honest farmer and the workman high above the waxed nose and the worthless idler and the purse proud, fine skinned pleasure seeker. The man has a spotless record. He is the true representative of honest labor. Always charitable and friendly to the poor, he is truly a man of the people. For one, feel it an honor to vote for him. We have listened to grangers, farmer's alliances and Knights of Labor clamoring for representation in our legislative halls for years. Now, gentlemen, you have a chance to elect a man to congress that will do justice to all classes, and no true American should ask for more. Vote for him, elect him, and you will never regret it." A REPUBLICAN.
Spring Lake, Oct. 8.

Gazing at Mrs. Cleveland.
Baltimore American: Mrs. Cleveland is still a great curiosity to the people of Washington. The other night at Albaugh's the people in the audience looked at her sitting in a private box as if she was a wild animal. After the play nearly the entire audience stood in the lobby in double rows, the two lines reaching from the auditorium doors down the stairs, out the front door, and even to the carriage door. When she came out they gaped at her and commented as if she was a professional beauty. During the last few afternoons a crowd of ladies, and men, too, were seen sitting on the stone balustrade running along the walk to the steps of the White House. Inquiry showed that they came to get a glimpse of Mrs. Cleveland when she went her carriage for her drive. Attorney-General Garland will call your name if you are a recreant. The man who can drop into Mr. Garland's office and give him the "latest" and do it up well, will always find a vacant chair awaiting him in the Attorney-General's room.
